THE OCTOBER FORESTER AND AGRICULTURIST

A particularly valuable number of the Hawaiian Forester and Agriculturist is that for October. It contains in full the papers read at the recent meeting of the Farmers' Institute, beginning with that of Dr. William T. Brigham, of which the editor says:

"The information therein contained will be of permanent value as a record of the fruit trees which have already been established here, and will lay the foundation of all future works upon our island fruits."

This is called the "fruit number" on the cover and it ought to be in the hands of every fruit raiser, and of everyone intending to raise fruit, in the Territory.

Jacob Kotinsky, of the Agricultural Bureau, contributes entomological notes. The monthly report of Alexander Crow, Superintendent of Entomology and Inspection, is printed in this number.

Leopold G. Blackman, editor of the magazine, has a telling leader on diversified agriculture.

FERNANDEZ MAKES ATTACK ON HARVEY

There was a limited attendance at the Home Rule rally at Aala park on Saturday evening, during the course of which there was a lively tilt between the Home Rule candidate for Supervisor-at-Large and his rival on the Democratic ticket.

Fernandez, in his speech, attacked Harvey for neglecting to provide for his dependent relatives, leaving him, the speaker, to come to their aid. He accused Harvey of discharging those men under him who failed sufficiently to patronize the Kilohehena saloon, and also made a practice of charging the usurious rate of 25 per cent. per week on money advanced to the men.

The colonization schemes of Harvey and Fern were such as to throw the Republican attempts into the shade, declared the speaker. Through the orders of these bosses the laborers along the front had been herded together in the buildings in the rear of Ahoo's livery stable, on Vineyard street.

Harvey was in the crowd and attempted to answer the charges forthwith, but the gathering of Home Rulers were not prepared to listen and his attempts were drowned in a chorus of protests and yells.

FINAL POLITICAL MEETINGS TONIGHT

The wind-up of speechmaking for the campaign will take place tonight. The Republicans are billed to hold a rally at Aala Park and the Democrats will hold forth at the Gore on Union Square, opposite the Capitol grounds.

At the Democratic meeting seats will be provided for a big crowd and Ernest Kaali's orchestra will be in attendance. Mrs. Alapai and Miss Kaali will sing. A new campaign song for McClanahan, just composed, will be sung for the first time. Chairman H. J. Mossman, of the county committee, will preside.
